

Terry "Popeye" Barrett

Terry began playing the guitar at age 13. By 14, he had a band and he was out gigging. Then at 15, he was playing solo, in concerts, opening up for The Raspberries, Joe Walsh, Todd Rundgren, Glass Harp, Peter Frampton, Bo Diddley and other touring acts of the time.

The singer/songwriter went on to form groups that toured and played with with many internationally known recording acts. UB40, Bon Jovi, The Ramones, Jimmy Buffet, The Meditations, The Romantics, to name a few.

Barrett has had several songs on radio charts throughout the U.S. and other continents. He has been a record producer, a sound engineer, a studio guitarist, and was even on the road crew for The Ramones. He has lived and worked on both coasts and his native Ohio.
